CLASS POEM

When we, the Class of Forty-one, pass on like those before,
And leave these ivy-covered walls, the place we much adore,
We'll always look ahead of us—the future in our view—
To bring about a richer life and make our dreams come true.

Whenever one sets out upon the road to find his aim,
He needs must have a worthy guide to lead him on toward fame:
The teachers we may call our guides who helped us on the way
And made the long and trying road much easier day by day.

Before we go we'd like to leave a parting thought behind:
Regardless of what arduous task this world for us may find,
The motto that will ever keep our heads remaining high,
"He conquers who has conquered self," shall never in us die.

—Fay Patnaude

CLASS SONG

The time has come when we must say,
Farewell, Searles High, to you;
And as we venture forth in life,
We'll aim for honor true.

We'll strive to be a credit to
Our colors black and gold;
Our motto in our hearts we'll keep,
The future to unfold.

We'll often travel Memory's Lane
With you to spend a day,
For precious will these moments seem
To us along Life's way.

We're leaving you for greater hopes
That reach an unknown sky;
And in our hearts again we say,
"Farewell to you, Searles High."

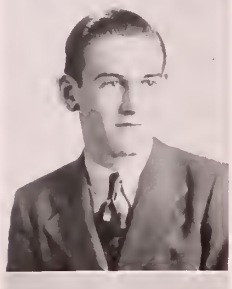
RALPH DAVENPORT ABERCROMBIE, JR.

"Believe it or not"

Football 2, 3, 4 Track 2, 3, 4
Hi-Y 2, 3, 4

"Commencement" is quite a character. He has a tendency to spin yarns more or less fictional in character. His imagination gives these yarns a very interesting quality. We expect to hear from him later on. Good luck to you, "Commencement."



JOSEPH RENE ALTOTT

"Good things come in small packages"

Blue and White 4 Military Ball Committee 4
Hi-Y 2 Cadets 4
Baseball 2, 3, 4 Basketball 2, 3, 4

Although Joe is one of our smaller members, his spirit makes up for anything he lacks in size. He is very active in sports. When he is among friends he is very talkative and makes any conversation as interesting one. Lots of luck, Joe, in the future.

LILLIAN KATHRYN ANDRUCHOW

"Ambition is the basis of success"

Girls' A.A. 2

Lillian is very ambitions. She goes about her work with a zeal which is very fine to see. She is very quiet and seldom asserts herself. She seems to feel that others can do enough talking out of turn to make up for her lack of noisiness. If she is convinced of something, however, she is not afraid to let anyone know what she feels. Here's luck, Lillian, for you in all your future work.

DIANA HARRI ARAKELIAN

"With never an idle moment"

Girls' A.A. 2 Girl Reserves 2, 3, 4
Glee Club

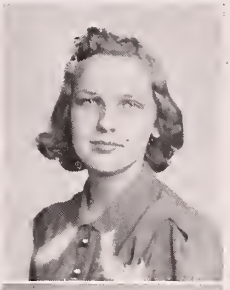
Diana is one member of our class who is well-liked and combines the well-known beauty and brains. She is leaving this section of the country next year to attend Mary Washington College in Virginia. From all indications, she should be a great success, and we'll all be wanting to hear from her soon as one of the students of that well-known college. Lots of luck, Diana.

FRED ARTHUR ARCHAMBAULT, JR.

"All luck is caused by good work"

Football 3, 4

Serious in appearance, sociable by nature, Fred's shy manners deceive none of his friends. Calmness and diligence seem to belong to him in great measure. We wish you all the luck in the world, Fred.



MARION E. AUSTIN

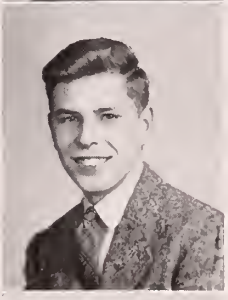
"Industry brings its own reward"

Quiet and reserved, Marion belongs to our class as one of those silent rooters which are a necessity. She is loyal to her friends and when with them she becomes more talkative. We wish you success, Marion!

MARGUERITE MARIE AZNOIAN

"Where did you get those eyes?"

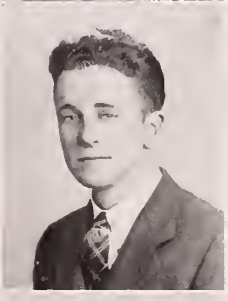
Marge is the proud owner of a pair of large brown eyes, the envy of many a girl. Not the least of her attributes is a pleasing taste in dress, plus a marked ability in designing and sewing. We do hope you follow this career, Margie. Lots of luck.



MENCESLAUS JOSEPH BAJOR

"It's hard to keep a good man down"

Mickey's fine spirits make it very hard to discourage him, and they also cause him to be prepared for any emergency. He is very friendly and at times quiet, although when with friends, he is a very fine conversationalist. Mickey plans to attend Tufts next year. He hasn't yet told us what he's going to be.



ROBERT ADAMS BAKER

"An ounce of mirth is worth a pound of sorrow"

Basketball 4 Football 3
Track 3

Bob's chief aim is to be happy, and while achieving it he has given much happiness to others. His ability for hitting home runs on the baseball diamond has earned for him the nickname "Homer." May you be as cheerful in the future, Bob!

FRANCIS PATRICK BALFOUR

"Earnest and diligent— success is his"

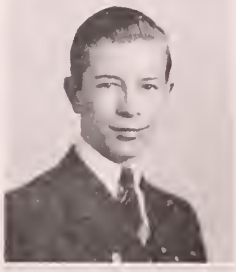
Cadets, 1st Lieutenant 4
Military Ball Committee 4

Frank has the quality of being able to concentrate solely on what he is doing. He can become so deeply engrossed in something as to be entirely oblivious to the world outside. He has proven his worth in working for the success of everything and endeavoring to put things across in a big way.

HOWARD LESTER BARDSLEY

"Good luck befriend thee"

Howard is rather quiet, but he always has a word of greeting for anyone. He is very courteous. He gets along very well with the students and is well-liked among his acquaintenances. His outside activities, however, prevent his being seen about the school after 12.45.



CLIFTON ALVIN BATCHELLER

"Beg and borrow, pay tomorrow"

Cadets, Sergeant 3; 2nd Lieutenant 4 Traffic Squad 4
Military Ball Committee 4

Batch is always borrowing or lending school supplies. He pays his debts cheerfully and promptly, and in return expects the same from others. He is always willing to help a friend, but some students take advantage of his good disposition and in so doing make themselves undesirable friends. He is always cheerful and in good spirits. Loads of luck, Batch.

LINDA MARIE BERARDI

"Sensible people find nothing useless"

Linda is one of our charming few who doesn't say a lot. but what she does say is usually worth listening to. Her outstanding characteristics are her black hair and sparkling brown eyes that we all have admired.

EDWIN NELSON BERRY

"Popularity reflects character"

Class Treasurer 2, 3, 4 Football Manager 2, 3, 4
Senior Play 4 Hi-Y 2
Cadets, 2nd Lieutenant 4

That Eddie has had our trust throughout High school is shown by the fact that he has held the money bags during that time. He is always cheerful and since he goes around with a smile and a greeting for everyone, he is very popular with the student body. He has shown his talents as an actor by his fine performance in the Senior Play. Eddie can often be seen going on one errand or another for Mr. Beaumont. Good luck, Eddie.

MELVIN SIDNEY BERGER

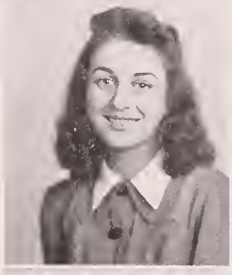
KATHERINE G. BOGANNAM

"How charming is her smile"

Kay is very well liked among her fellow students. Her flashing brown eyes draw friends as a strong magnet draws iron or steel. A cheery smile and a word for everyone make her very pleasing. We'll hear more from her soon, no doubt. Good luck, Kay.



MICHAEL KACHIG BOGOSIAN

"With never a care in the world"

Mike is a very cheerful fellow with a very happy-go-lucky disposition. This attitude characterizes him among his friends. His presence can be detected by his loud voice, heard at any time during the day in any part of the school. May you always be as carefree, Mike, on your travels o'er the world.

BARBARA M. BOISVERT

"May happiness be in her heart always"

Rosina has a very cheerful disposition and is seldom seen frowning. Her agreeable nature and competent manners are previews of the success we feel sure the future holds for her. Rosina is a whiz at remembering technicalities, too. Her recitations in English testify to this faculty.

Enid is very attractive, as all the boys will testify. She is sociable and is always surrounded by friends. She is very good all-around, in looks, dress, and manners We hope Enid continues her singing career, for we all heard her talents at our class parties. Band 2, 3, 4

"Butch" is a very musical girl and has been in the band for four years. She is a very good player as all who have heard her can say. She is very attractive, and popular among her fellow classmates. DANIEL HUMPHREY BURTON

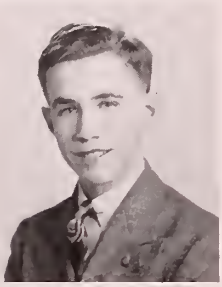
"Hence, loathed Melancholy"

Football 3, 4
Vice President 2
Traffic Squad 4

Basketball 2, 3
Cadets, 2nd Lieutenant 4

Danny is very amusing. He seems to be just a natural-born comedian. He is constantly joking, and he can always be heard by anyone who is near because he is very noisy about telling his joke. If he is not around, everyone misses him because there is no comedian in the school that can approach Danny. Lots of luck, Danny, and keep it up. Good spirits cause long life.



ALFRED A. CARON

"A sunny disposition is greatly to be desired"

"Al" is a very fine fllow. He seldom exerts himself to say much. In school he is courteous enough to keep quiet during classes; outside, he talks and jokes with his friends but he has much less to say than any of the rest. Maybe he doesn't get a chance. Good luck, "Al."

HAZEL A. CASBY

"With a touch of gayety about her"

Girls' A.A. 2, 3, 4 Girl Reserves 4

JOSEPH CHARLES CIRAS

"He who laughs— lasts"

Baseball 3, 4 — Football 4

CHRISTINA MAY COULTER

"And then my heart with rapture fills
And dances with the daffodils"

Girls' A.A. — Blue and White 2
Senior Play 4 — Girl Reserves 2, 3

"Chris" is noted for her girlish dignity and charm, together with her smart appearance and ability to act. We have yet to see her ruffled or unsmiling, and we feel certain that this in itself has helped to account for her many admirers.

RITA GENEVIEVE COX

"We think her quiet, but things are not what they seem"

Girls' A.A. 2

We never hear a lot from Rita, but her number of friends tell us that there's not a better sport nor a pleasanter girl in the class. Her loyalty to her school and sincerity in friendship are qualities that we should all copy. Good luck, Rita.

KATHLEEN H. DEVLIN

Almost every morning just before the 8:30 bell, Kathleen comes flying into school and slips breathlessly into her seat. In that same way, she rushes through the day and then home. May you ever be as happy-go-lucky. Kathleen.

LORRAINE IDA DION

"But common quiet is man's concern"

Girls' A.A. 2

Lorraine is one of the less noisy members of our class. Inside and outside of school, she is a jolly, fun-loving maiden. May your hopes and ambitions for the future be fulfilled, Lorraine.

What would the senior class do without "Herby" to give his opinions and arguments on any and all subjects! Throughout high school, he has been energetic in all class activities. "Herby" says that he is going to be a test pilot in the future. Happy landings, "Herby!"

HENRY R. DOERR

"Hair like a red meteor on the troubled air"

Cadets 2, 3

RUSSELL CLIFFORD EICHLER

"Just a jolly jester"

Cadets 2

If you are in search of peacefulness and silence, stay away from Russell. He can always be found fooling or joking somewhere in the school. If you want fun and excitement, Russell is the boy to see.

BEATRICE IRENE FEUGILL

"Never on furtive mischief bent
She's always on her task intent"

Girls' A.A. 3

JOSEPH R. FRAGALA

"A little work, a little play"

Glee Club 3 Cadets 4

The fact that Joseph is a studious boy was proven last year when he was given a history award. Because he is so quiet and reserved, we don't hear much from him. We all like him and wish him good fortune all along.

JOE WARREN GAGE

"At his work or at his play,
He's quiet as a mouse we say"

Joe, one of the more studious members of our class, is a sterling example of "Nihil confectum sine labore" (Nothing gained without work.) He goes about his work quietly and steadily and has achieved good results.

CLASS HISTORY

IF one were to write a biography or an autobiography, he would find that his material would fall, almost of itself, into definite periods or epochs of the life under consideration. Since our high school years have constituted a formative, as well as happy, epoch of our lives, let us review these years briefly.

First, we recall many joyous occasions of our sophomore year. Although we considered ourselves fully capable of commencing this new life, the upper classmen readily established us in the category of newcomers to a foreign land. Nevertheless, we gradually increased in proficiency.

As was customary, the officials of our sophomore class were elected early in the year. Those meeting with our approval were John Lee, president: Daniel Burton, vice president: Theresa Whelan, secretary: and Edwin Berry, treasurer. Sophomore members of the Student Council were Winifred McComish and Andrew Partington.

Early in the fall of 1938, we participated in our first social event, the Sophomore Reception, tendered to us by the senior class. The highlight of the evening was a grand march led by the president of the senior class. This affair, together with the Sophomore Party, formed an important part of the year's entertainment.

Unnoticed, time stole onward and then we were ready to proceed with our junior year, ushered in by the election of class officers. Those winning office were: president, John Lee: vice president, Robert Collins: secretary, Winifred McComish; and treasurer, Edwin Berry. The three delegates to Student Council were Jean Perry, Donald Jackson, and Andrew Partington.

Then came a major event of our junior year, namely, the selection of a class ring. Through the commendatory efforts of the committee in charge, consisting of one member from each home room, junior rings were made available earlier than usual. The gold rings were embellished with the symbolic figure of Searles Tower and the word "Methuen" engraved on a black background.

The Junior Party, scheduled for the month of March, was held at the Central School Hall. An entertainment featuring talent from our own class, dancing, and refreshments made that a memorable evening.

As the year was gradually drawing to a close, a meeting was held to assign to the student who had excelled in American History throughout the year the Washington and Franklin medal award. The honor was conferred upon George Jagger, a worthy recipient. Among those who were presented with history books for superior work in this subject were Phyllis Nimmo, Eileen Lanctot, Elizabeth Furneaux, Ethel Fuller, Joseph Fragala, Fred Spear, Milton Grossman and Oscar Gronbeck.

An occasion which brought forth much acclaim for the high school band was the New England Conclave held at Lawrence. Under the supervision of its competent director, Harold McDonnell, the band demonstrated the superior ability with which it had long been accredited. As a reward for its accomplishments, a celebration was held for the entire musical unit.

With the passing of these two years, we were facing the concluding year of our high school career. With the confident attitude which governed all our actions, we met to choose our officers. Robert Collins succeeded to the presidency and Arthur Egerton to the vice presidency. Winifred McComish was reelected secretary and Edwin Berry, treasurer. We were represented on the Student Council by Theresa Whelan, Lois Whitehead, Andrew Partington, and George Jagger.

Having knowledge of the busy social program scheduled for the year and realizing that time waits for neither man nor high school pupil, we deviated from our usual course to formulate plans for the Sophomore Reception. The cooperation of the higher classes was greatly appreciated by the sophomores and was returned by their attendance at the Senior Party, a very gay and successful affair held a few months afterward.

In December, rehearsals began for the senior play, entitled "Almost Eighteen," and Edwin Berry and Christine Coulter were chosen for the leading roles. The performances of all the members of the cast proved the dramatic talents of our seniors to an audience which showed its appreciation by the rounds of applause following each act. The profit reaped from this presentation exceeded that of all other years and greatly increased the money in our treasury.

Another means of raising funds to lessen the graduation expenses was the magazine drive. Results of the progress in each home room were tabulated daily. The radio awarded for the largest number of subscriptions went to Miss Southworth's room. As a result of these magazine drives, we now have two rooms in the building equipped with radios.

The Methuen High School was duly represented by Phyllis Nimmo at the state meeting, in Boston, of the Daughters of the American Revolution. Each year a member of the senior class is selected by vote to act as a delegate at this convention.

In the field of athletics, the football and basketball teams fought their way to victory during the season of '40 and '41. The basketball team captured the trophy at the North Shore Tournament, and the team was also entered in the M.I.T. Tournament.

The time had come at last for the cadets to present their Military Ball. In preparation, the High School Cadet Corps Uniform Drive was launched by the Parent-Teachers' Association and supported by the officers of the cadets. On the night of the Ball, the cadets, arrayed in their new uniforms, and led by Major Gaston Ouellette and his lady, took part in a colorful grand march, followed by dancing to the music of Baron Hugo's orchestra.

Now that June was drawing near, we seniors anxiously awaited one of the greatest moments of our lives. On June 6th, our last social affair, the Senior Prom, held as usual in the Central School Hall, was attended by a large gathering. We felt that we had never witnessed a more beautiful spectacle as we gazed at the shimmering whirl of color.

At last we have arrived at our graduation week. Some of us are happy, many of us are sad. This epoch of our lives is over. Let us now look ahead to the future, bearing in mind our class motto: "He Conquers Who Conquers Himself."

—Mary Stewart

CLASS PROPHECY

TIME: 1951
PLACE: Bruno & Matses Stadium.
EVENT: Game between Boston Red Sox and Detroit Tigers.

Jane: Hello, Roger. It's been a long time since I've seen you!

Roger: Why hello, Jane. What are you doing these days?

Jane: I'm society editor for "The Daily Star." I suppose you're still scouting for the Braves.

Roger: Yes, I am. Isn't "The Daily Star" James Day's newspaper? I was just reading an excellent editorial by Phyllis Nimmo.

Jane: Oh, yes, several of our old school friends are on the staff. "Bing" Doherty is the head of the circulation department, Arthur Egerton and Alfred Nicholson are sports reporters, Billy Liversidge writes a column called "Spelling Simplified," and Eddie Haller draws cartoons. By the way, what has happened in the game so far?

Roger: The score is 1-0 in favor of the Red Sox, thanks to "Buck" Boehm's home run drive into the right field bleachers. The Sox were in trouble only once, in the second inning, when the bases were loaded; but the keystone combination of Altott and Richardson pulled off a fast double play to end the inning. I guess the Sox will win because Medauer is pitching a whale of a game, and Ciras is catching.

Jane: No wonder Richardson and Medauer are playing such a good game. There are Barbara and Winnie in box seats cheering for them.

I heard that Governor Robert Collins was to throw out the first ball.

Roger: Yes, he threw it out. You would have missed more of the game, but Alderman Dixon delayed the start by an hour-long speech of welcome to the governor. He was finally stopped by his wife, (you remember Ethel McGrath) who was tugging at his sleeve.

Jane: Why, there's Senator Reynolds buying a chicken barbecue from Mike Bogosian. I see that all the Senator's companions are carrying dictionaries. I guess he's living up to his high school reputation.

Roger: Yes, and there's Hinch down there fast asleep, as usual. I see that he has one of Lee and Kay's soft drinks beside him.

Jane: Oh, there are Fred Spear, Ruth Bullock, Grace Pulsifer and Muriel Turcotte in the band, and I've just made another note for my society column— Louise Siskind, the famous social butterfly, is down there with Lydia Shapiro. Lydia's a popular Broadway actress, you know.

Roger: Look at Warren Gilman peddling his ice-cream. He has just sold some to Robert Stuart. Bob's a salesman for Sears Roebuck.

Jane: I hear some planes overhead. Oh look, Roger! One of them is advertising Jackson & Brigg's "Everlasting Cigars." What does the other ad say? Oh yes, "Learn How to Throw it, in Ten Easy Lessons. See Abercrombie Today."

Roger: Those planes are designed by Charles Fleming and Clifton Batcheller.

By the way, I suppose you know that this stadium was constructed by Peter Stravinskas and painted by Harry Taylor. Arthur Gerstenberger and Oscar Gronbeck, the ground-keepers, keep it in good condition. When Bruno and Matses promoted the scheme for a new stadium, people predicted failure, but it seems to be a success.

Jane: Doesn't Ed Pfund do a good job of announcing the game! But what is Jean Perry doing in front of the microphone now? Oh, I remember: someone told me that she describes the game for feminine listeners— interprets some of Ed's technical language, etc.

Roger: I see Milton Grossman down there. He was supposed to finish his interneship last year, but he decided to stay another year because of the pretty nurses, Ruth Wright, Ethel Fuller, and Dorothy Olds. They say that Agatha Stravinsky, Mary Regan, Theresa Whelan, Irene Waring and Fay Patnaude are also nurses, but they are in other hospitals.

Jane: Have you heard about the former football captains, Andy Partington and Pete Demerjian? They're coaching a girls' football team, which is made up of such huskies as Marion Austin, Lucille Michaud, Caroline Palese, Marion Johnson, Daisy Woodburn and Rosemary Mishio.

Roger: I notice that Kathleen Devlin just came in. She's as late as ever. And there are Priscilla Hill, Shirley Hazelhurst, and Irene Harnisch. They always were inseparable.

Jane: I met Florence Hetherington and Mildred DeLucia on the street yesterday. They are court stenographers now. They told me that Eddie Berry is in jail for bigamy. They also told me about Krikor Drigian's trial for speeding. Robert Smith was the presiding judge. The policeman who brought Krikor in was Ernest Mack. Krikor's attorney, Billy Sweeney, maintained it must be a case of mistaken identity. Helen McIlwain was sitting on the sidelines: she's the court interpreter.

Roger: I was in the Methuen library the other day. The librarians are old friends of ours, Christina Morse, Lorraine Dion, Elizabeth Slack and Ada Howe.

Jane: I have the latest edition of "The Star" here. There's a column on "How to Keep Your Husband," written, in collaboration, by Virginia

Morey, Irene Dussault, and Rita Cox. They certainly ought to know.

Roger: Oh, look at Mickey Bajor down there. He runs a school for young women, you know. That's his faculty with him. He employs Virginia Richardson as of dean of girls. Phyllis Krasnowski is physical instructor and the rest of the teachers are Eileen Lanctot, Genevieve Hayes, and Veronica Tanana. Alfred Eaton seems to be the only male instructor. I'll bet he's in his glory.

Roger: Here's an article about the school board. I guess members Persis Pendleton, Melva Seymour and Juliette Shantery have a hard time restraining the radical ideas of chairman Monette. He wants to pass a motion to restrict the home work of the pupils to one assignment a month.

Jane: Here' a news story about Frank Balfour and Wallace Smith. They're making an expedition into the wilds of Africa. Frank's ability as an expert marksman should prove useful there. Hubert Mason is going along as the photographer.

The Archambault and Shuter Steamship liner is now on its way to the South Sea Islands, says this article from the Travel Section, edited by Lillian Moore. Among the vacationists are Edith Mitchell, Lillian Pasquille, Anna Vogler, and Jeanette Breton, who has already captured the hearts of the coptain and the crew. The reason Jeanette went on the cruise was to forget about her broken engagement—her fourth, I believe. Same old Jeanette!

Roger: There's a couple over there with a portable radio. Why, it's Shirley Harris and Herbie Saba. The last song they played was the "Stanley Mitchell Stomp," sung by Lillian Sears, and isn't that Irene Denis singing Muriel Wainwright's latest song?

Oh, they're tuning in on my favorite "quiz" program, conducted by Norman Fitzgerald. On the board of experts are Mary LaRosa and Dorothy Cipolla. Dorothy is almost impossible to "stump" on a question. Competing with the regular experts are Audrey French, Lillian Jozak and Norma Furneaux, as their guests.

Jane: Oh, yes, I heard that program last week. One of the guests was Ruth Schruender. Well, the game's over. I'm afraid we didn't see much of it; we were too busy talking about old friends.

Roger: Let's run to get a bus.

ON THE BUS

Jane: Well, I certainly was surprised to see Pat Thurston driving the bus, weren't you? She's the president of the bus driver's union, which has for its members, Marguerite Quigley, Frances Potter, Evelyn Valcourt, Lillian Andruchow and Virginia Meinelt.

Roger: I guess since the army has taken so many men, the girls have to fill in at the men's jobs. Gaston Ouellette, George Russell, Howard Bardsley and Russell Eichler are all doing their bit for Uncle Sam. I hear that Kenneth Petzold is a test pilot in the army, too.

Jane: Oh, there's Ann DeRoche's dress shop. I was in there the other day, and who do you think are her models? Louise Deady, Lois Whitehead, Diana Arakelian, Edith Flanders, Rose Souther and Arlene Fry.

Roger: Across the street there is Kenny Mahan's escort bureau. The sign says: "Escorts to suit any young lady." I guess Kenny keeps quite busy.

I ran into Kenny Scherig the other night. I guess he has quite a big business here in New York. Virginia Tinsch is his secretary. He employs Marguerite Aznoian, Dorothy Brown, Nellie Brigulio, Barbara Boisvert and Linda Berardi to help his chief accountant, Melvin Berger, keep the company's finances straight.

Jane: I suppose you know that Christine Coulter is happily married to Dick, and that Waldo Stevens has been begging Natalie to marry him for five years, but Natalie has decided to be stubborn.

Roger: Oh, yes, everyone knows that. Oh, there's the flower shop run by Everett Schubert, John Renaud and Warren Lodge. They held a flower show last week. Presiding over the booths and exhibits were Galatea Mariolis, Lottie Marchlik and Melvina Mgrdichian.

Jane: On the next corner is the "Women's Dainty Lingerie Store," run by Leo Walsh and Tommy Burke. Their chief salesgirls are Joan Weston, Janet Nassi and Agnes Keamy.

Roger: Only a block from here is Bertha Subach's restaurant. Let's go in and get a bite to eat.

Jane: Fine!

Oh look, there's the roller skating rink. Joe Gage is an instructor there and I hear that Alice Hajjar, Alfred Caron, Henry Doerr, Albert Hoffman, Betty Hamilton and Nishon O'Hanian are often to be found skating there.

That beauty parlor sign reminds me that I have an appointment to have my hair done tomorrow morning. I go to the beauty shop owned by Sophie Kachuck, Ruth Hurrell and Ruth Zakoian. Here's the restaurant. Let's go in.

INSIDE THE RESTAURANT

Roger: The autograph fans certainly do swarm around Enid Brearley. She's an opera star now and Robert Baker sings opposite her. I hear that Lillian Hasbany is to make her debut as a concert singer tonight. That skilled pianist, Evelyn Haller, will accompany her.

Jane: Here comes our waitress, Beatrice Feugill. The other waitresses here are Methuen girls; too— Jackie Morency, Gladys Nutton, and Nevina Viglione. There's Connie Ouellette two tables over. He and Victor McKenzie pose for clothes ads now.

Roger: Have you read George Jagger's latest book, "Off with the Breeze?" Quite a few of our old friends have become writers. Betty Furneaux and Alice Gardner have written a book called "Household Hints," and Kenneth Skea has just published a book which ought to be of help to high school pupils. It is called "How to Write a Book Report without Reading the Book."

Jane: Our classmates certainly are becoming famous. I have just finished reading Joe Fragala's best-seller, "The Sheik of Hoboken," and I saw a movie the other night in which Mary Whelan was the star and Lilly Corey the comedienne.

Roger: I saw that, too. It's the new musical comedy with Rose Leduc, Emily Zekis, Claire Burke, Jackie Morin, and Katherine Bogannam in the chorus. Danny Burton did a good job of directing the chorus girls, didn't he?

Jane: Leave it to Dan. Look at Genevieve Kaled over there. I thought I recognized that giggle.

Who is that young woman the reporters are trying to interview? Why, I do believe it's Nancy Kimball, the great bare-back rider. Harold Nutter is asking her to smile while he snaps her picture for his paper, and Ethel Sharsmitt seems to be making notes describing her costume for the fashion news.

Roger: I was talking with Arthur Causer yesterday. He is head of a large advertising concern, and he told me that Hazel Casby, Evelyn Harrell and Rosina Bonanno are among his most skilled copy writers.

He said he often sees Barbara Cedergren, Mary Stewart and Cecile Turmel on their way to the airport. They are plane hostesses, you know.

Jane: What has become of Milton Myette? I haven't seen him for years.

Roger: You would see him if you were a basketball fan. He is one of the sport's most sought after officials.

Jane: Just look at the time! I must rush! It's been nice to see you and talk over old times. Goodbye, Roger.

Roger: Goodbye.

IVY ORATION

AS we, the Class of Nineteen Hundred Forty-One, gather together today, we realize that one period of our lives is almost at an end, the carefree, lighthearted, and happy days of youth. When we leave our High School to step out into the world—either to advanced schools or to work—we shall be under our own guidance. We shall meet with difficulties that will appear insuperable. It has, perhaps, always been arduous to enter into active life, but now with the whole world in such a hopeless tangle, socially, economically, and morally, it seems even more difficult than ever. Indeed, we enter the world in one of its darkest moments: a world ,filled with fear, hate, persecution, and destruction. Yet if the problems appear more difficult than formerly, our efforts must be that much sturdier, and our success, as a result, the more precious.

Let us, for a few moments, leave the problems of the world and our future, and consider our school. Notice how the ivy planted in years gone by has steadily climbed the brick walls, and made them appear more substantial and more beautiful. When ivy begins to develop, it faces the seemingly insurmountable problems of drought, insects, and cold—all of which threaten its very existence. Nevertheless, the ivy continues to grow and to climb: it overcomes the drought by digging deep for moisture and by storing a surplus in its roots; the insects, by developing new leaves faster than the destructive pests devour the old: the cold, by shedding its leaves and lying dormant during the winter. Just as the ivy planted by former classes has climbed higher and higher toward the topmost parts of our stately building, so our own ivy, we know, will fight with perseverance to attain the heights and thus further beautify our school.

We should use this indomitable vine as a guide and an inspiration. Our teachers and our principal have carefully superintended our high school years and have helped mould our characters. Now we are about to put ourselves to the test. Although the young ivy is being transplanted into new surroundings, we know that it will live and develop. We, also, are entering the world while we are still young and uncertain and, like the ivy, we must work and climb, store and plan, endure in order to succeed.

When we step out into the world, we shall have no teachers to urge us on: consequently, we, by ourselves, must work for our place in life. He who, through despair and discouragement, still perseveres will, in the end, be the most successful. According to Webster—"to persevere is to continue in a given course especially in the face of despair, opposition, and remonstrance." Suppose that Louis Pasteur had given up his work when his first experiment was unsuccessful, that Columbus had turned back in fear when for long weeks he did not sight land, or that George Washington or Abraham Lincoln had surrendered or even given up hope after a few defeats! These men did not give up, turn back, or surrender, but they, through their perseverance, multiplied by the perseverance of thousands of other great figures from the past have produced the many benefits of our modern civilization. We may well look to such men for our incentive to persevere.

Our little ivy plant is weak, but in that weakness lies its strength. It cannot grow unsupported, but it nevertheless adds dignity and stability to whatever it adorns. Part of the year it appears lifeless and ugly, but when nature is favorable it becomes vital and beautiful. Although we are young, we have the courage and the vigor of youth. We must carry our hopes high, and when our opportunity arrives we shall succeed in climbing to the heights and in adding brilliance and success to our world.

—Elizabeth Furneaux

SOCIAL EVENTS

THIS year's social events were so successful and so well enjoyed that they have passed entirely too quickly. The Military Ball was more resplendent than ever, for the Cadet Corps had their new uniforms. Do you remember our Class Play "Almost Eighteen?"— and the Girls' A. A.?— Of course you do, for who could forget our year— the year of '41!

THE BLUE AND WHITE

ONCE again the Blue and White has come through the season successfully. The editor completed the circuit of new cover designs in the October issue. Also an innovation this year was the serial story in the literary editor's column. With Mr. Bagnell as its adviser, the staff has endeavored (and we may say successfully) to keep the high standards of past years.

CADET CORPS

OUR Cadet Corps has made more progress this year than in many years past. The Corps conducted a Uniform Drive which was very successful. The uniforms seem to strengthen and make more effective the entire unit. The Military Ball was, as ever, the outstanding social event of the year. Long will be remembered the Grand March displaying immaculate uniforms, formal attire, and colorful gowns. The Cadets were also active on Memorial Day.

CLASS DAY PAGEANT

ONE of the most important features of Class Day exercises at Methuen High School is the Pageant. The fine architecture of the school building and beauty of the grounds serve to enhance its charm. Place in this setting the girls and boys in their beautiful and colorful costumes, and we have a splendid and inspiring performance which will long be remembered.

First Row: L. Whitehead, J. Lee, J. Kay, L. Moore.
Second Row: C. Pollard, B. Mackay, M. Appleyard, A. Howe.

CHEER LEADERS

CREDIT for the successful season of the football team can partly be given to the enthusiastic efforts of our cheer leaders. They have vigorously cheered our football team on to victory after victory. The student body cooperated to a full extent, after some encouragement by the leaders.

GOLF TEAM

AN innovation in our sports department this year is the Golf Team. Although the team was organized late this year, it promises to be a fine addition to our school sports program. The team is being coached by Mr. Dan O'Connell, and is composed of the following boys: Joseph Duffy. Paul Hinch, Joseph Waitkewicz, Alan Abbott, John Pelzar, Emil Lange, Jerome Jackson, Kenneth Rogers, Norman Samels and Ronald Binns.

BOYS' BASKETBALL

WE can say with pride that the team of 1941 has been one of the most successful that Methuen has ever had. In addition to being Greater Lawrence Champions, the squad also has captured the North Shore Trophy. The team was coached by Ernest Ramsbottom, assisted by John Keefe. The team's cooperation with Captain Edward "Buck" Boehm was the factor that decided its great success during the season. The squad also entered the Tech Tournament, but it was eliminated before the play-off. Joe Ciras had 192 points, Bob Medauer 148, and Buck Boehm 134 points to lead the scorers.

The schedule for the season 1940-1941 is as follows:

FOOTBALL

UNDER the able coaching of John Hannigan and Alec Szczapa, a fine-spirited Methuen squad had a very successful season. Co-captained by Peter Demerjian and Andrew Partington, the team showed its determination throughout each game. The big thrill of the season was the overwhelming victory over Punchard. The Methuen squad had one tie and one loss contrasted against a total of six victories.

Seniors who received letters and sweaters: Captains Peter Demerjian and Andrew Partington; Joseph Ciras, "Buck" Boehm, Wilbur Briggs, Ralph Abercrombie, Daniel Burton, Charles Shuter, Donald Jackson, Edwin Berry, George Jagger, Merritt Ball and Duncan Langille.

The other lettermen are: Fred Caton, Ernest George, Bernard Hebsch, Joseph Sholik, William Archambault, Fred Archambault, George Garrity, John Devine, Donald Seaborne, Ernest Wade and Fred Carleton.

BASEBALL

SINCE the baseball season has not ended yet, we can state only the schedule for the season. We feel confident, however, that coached by Ernest Ramsbotham, the team's record will be excellent. Captained by Wilbur Briggs, the squad has the advantage of fine spirit and cooperation.

The 1941 schedule includes games with: Pinkerton, Central Catholic, Johnson,* Chelmsford,* and Punchard.* (*League games)

The squad is as follows: Team A— Myette ss, Highton 2b, C. Briggs c, Boehm rf, Hoyle 3b Ciras lf, Egerton 1b; Lafrenier cf; Medauer p.

Second Row: V. Takesian, T. Fleischman, W. Smith, B. Margolis, J. Byrne.
Third Row: R. Baker, J. Brookes, T. Dorsey. C. Shuter.

TRACK

AT the time of publication, the Track Team has not as yet participated in any meet. We have a situation parallel to last year's for our captain has been declared ineligible because of over-age. It will be remembered that last year the captain could not participate because of injuries. We feel sure, however, that handicapped as the team is by the loss of Captain Donald Jackson as an active participant, they will do their utmost to bring credit to M.H.S. Of one thing we may be sure, Methuen will be proud of the fine spirit that the squad will show.

The squad is as follows: Joseph Waitkewich, William Stebbins, Fred Carleton, Thomas Dorsey, John Barry, John Brooks, Merton Margolis, Philip DeFrates, Wilbert Smith, Ralph Abercrombie, Jr., Vatkes Takesian, Raffie Takesian, William Bamber and Krikor Drigian (manager.) The team's captain is Donald Jackson.

First Row: M. Quigley, P. Krasnowski, F. Potter, G. Foley, G. Nutton, F. Lawton.
Second Row P. Thurston, C. Pollard, N. Corliss, R. Souther, E. Hartwig, B. Mackay.
Third Row: E. Frost, A. Peate, C. Burke.

GIRLS' BASKETBALL

THIS year the Girls' Basketball Team had a very successful season, winning eight out of nine games played. Miss Dorothy Chadwick, the girls' physical supervisor, did a fine job of coaching, and with Frances Potter, our popular captain, and Pat Thurston, our manager, the team was in capable hands. Grace Foley and Frances Lawton have been chosen to succeed Frances Potter as co-captains for 1941-1942.

The following seniors received their sweaters and letters: Frances Potter, (captain,) Phyllis Krasnowski, Gladys Nutton, Marguerite Quigley.

Letters— Seniors: Winnie McComish, Claire Burke.
Juniors: Frances Lawton (co-captain elect) Grace Foley, (co-captain elect,) and Peggy Chadwick.

THE BAND

THE Methuen High School Band, under the direction of Mr. Harold McDonnell, has had a very successful year. Playing at many of the school functions, they capably represented Methuen High. They made a wonderful showing at both conclaves and we are indeed very proud of them.

First Row: H. Lambert, T. Haddad, M. Mastorakis, K. Drigian, K. Haddad, B. Nichols, P. DiFelice, E. Settle, D. Harrison.

Second Row: F. Spear, I. Gattinella, E. Haller, J. Privitera, N. Samels, W. Pearson, instructor.

THE ORCHESTRA

THE Methuen High School Orchestra, with Mr. Walter Pearson as its conductor, who has strived laboriously to make it a success, has been one of our school groups of which we are extremely proud. It has, since its organization, played at many different functions. Some of these events were the Evening High School graduation, assemblies and Class Day exercises.
